Exam Policy:

The exam policy applies to the quizzes, the midterm and the final exam. At the end of the exam, we will tell you to stop writing and raise your exam booklet high. If you continue writing, you may get a zero for that exam, as we will not make an effort to determine what part was written before time was called (and hence was fair to the other students) and what part was written afterwards (and hence was unfair).

If you arrive late for an exam, you will not be given extra time at the end of the exam.

If you need any special accommodations for the exam room, you need to talk to me in advance and as soon as you become aware of such special needs.

You must write the exam on your own. Receiving or giving help during the exam is prohibited. All exams will be in class and will be closed book. You may not bring any devices to the exam on which equations can be stored or any wireless devices that can retrieve such data.

If we cannot read your answer, we cannot give you any credit. If you have very bad handwriting, please see me at the beginning of the quarter.

If you do not show up for an exam, you receive a zero for that exam. The only exception to this rule is an emergency that is well-documented. As soon as you become aware of such an emergency, you need to contact me so that I can find a reasonable solution.

You must write your name on the sheet that contains the exam questions and hand in this sheet along with your exam. We will return the exam questions along with graded exams.
